FUNDING TO DANCE PROGRAMS, 1998-99

- In 1998-99, the Canada Council for the Arts provided grants worth $12.2 million to dance in Canada.

- Due to the collaborative nature of dance, Canada Council funding is awarded primarily to dance companies, collectives, and organizations as opposed to individuals. Grants to dance organizations totaled $11.4 million in 1998-99, while grants to individuals artists comprised $860,700. With this $860,700 in funds, a total of 70 dance artists received grants to further their careers as emerging, mid-career, established and aboriginal artists, while 54 travel grants to professional artists were awarded.

- Organizational funding assists a wide variety of dance organizations, collectives and companies to create, produce, tour and present new Canadian dance works. In 1998-99, a large percentage of organizational funding was disseminated through the creation/production in dance program. With a budget of $8.1 million, the program helps fund Canadian dance institutions such as the National Ballet of Canada and the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, as well as companies such as the Danny Grossman Dance Company and Mascall Dance. The dance touring and dance dissemination programs each received approximately $900,000 in funding in 1998-99.

- Funding to dance comprised 12% of Canada Council funding to the arts in 1998-99. In terms of funding allocations, the dance budget of $12.2 million is mid-range, with dance receiving more funding than media and inter-arts, but significantly less funding than Council's other performing arts disciplines of music and theatre (that receive $21.5 and $20.3 million respectively.)

- Funding to dance organizations and artists is widely dispersed across the country in 44 different cities and communities (see Table 2). However, a significant percentage of funding is concentrated in two Canadian centres featuring prominent and internationally recognized dance communities. Montréal received $4.0 million in Canada Council dance funding, while Toronto dance artists and organizations also received almost $4.0 million. The city of Winnipeg is emerging as a vital centre of dance activity, with $1.3 million in Council funds awarded to dancers and organizations in the city in 1998-99.

SOME FACTS ABOUT DANCE IN CANADA

- Data taken from Statistics Canada's 1996-97 Performing Arts Survey notes that while performing arts show attendance as a whole fell almost 13% in 1996-97 compared with 1994-95, dance attendance actually increased during this period, up 6% to approximately 1.3 million spectators. [1]

- A decline in public grants, the second largest source of funds after earned revenue for performing arts companies, was recorded in all disciplines in the 1996-97 Performing Arts Survey. While funding from the private sector to performing arts companies as a whole has increased to $84.8 million, up 17% from 1994-95, private sector contributions did not benefit dance, which recorded a decrease in private funding of –10.5%.

- In 1996-97, foreign tours generated an important source of revenue for dance companies. Revenues from foreign tours accounted for 45% of all tour revenues for performing arts companies as a whole, and totaled almost $13 million. Specifically, medium-size dance companies especially benefitted from tours, with tour revenues up 77% compared with 1994-1995. Approximately 27 Canadian dance companies were able undertake foreign tours in 1996-97.

[1] The Performing Arts Survey is a biennial survey of all not-for-profit professional performing arts companies in Canada classified as theatre, music (instrumental or choral), dance and opera. The 1996-97 survey covered 602 performing arts companies: 342 theatre, 145 music, 91 dance and 24 opera companies. The response rate was 96%.
